

PRESS RELEASETuesday June 9th, 2026CrediaBank supports National Emergency Aid Center (EKAB)

CrediaBank actively supports the work of the National Emergency Aid Center (EKAB) through the donation of a complete cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) system, comprising a chest compression device and a ventilator, which will be deployed in an ambulance.

The CPR system is a particularly important tool for the effective management of critical medical emergencies, significantly enhancing pre-hospital emergency care and strengthening EKAB's intervention capabilities.

This initiative forms part of CrediaBank's ongoing commitment to actively promoting public health by providing meaningful solutions to critical issues affecting society.

During a meeting with EKAB President Mr. Georgios Charalambous, CrediaBank Chief Executive Officer Ms. Eleni Vrettou stated: "We are particularly proud to stand alongside EKAB and contribute to the management of critical medical emergencies. People are at the heart of everything we do, beyond and above the numbers."

CrediaBank Chief Marketing & Corporate Communications Officer Ms. Ioanna Miggou commented: "At CrediaBank, Health is the cornerstone of our social responsibility initiatives. With a strong sense of responsibility and contribution, CrediaBank continues to create value for the highest good—Health—by supporting actions that strengthen social cohesion and respond to the needs of citizens."

EKAB President Mr. Georgios Charalambous expressed both his personal gratitude and that of the National Emergency Aid Center, warmly thanking CrediaBank for the donation and noting that it is an act of substance and strong symbolism: "This is not merely a piece of technological equipment, but a valuable tool that directly enhances our ability to respond to critical incidents and save human lives. CrediaBank's initiative highlights the meaningful role that the private sector can play in supporting public health and society as a whole. It is an example of responsible corporate citizenship and genuine social commitment. Actions such as this give us the strength to continue our work with even greater dedication and remind us that, in our effort to protect human life, we are not alone."
