CrediaBank stands alongside Greek athletes on their journey to the topEmmanouil Karalis, Anna Ntountounaki, Nikos Papangelis, the Greek Women's National Water Polo Team and Maroussi BC Chery will have CrediaBank by their side

Recognising that a team is the driving force behind success, CrediaBank becomes a companion to outstanding Greek athletes who make us proud by surpassing expectations and breaking stereotypes. Olympic pole vaulter Emmanouil Karalis, champion swimmer Anna Ntountounaki, Paralympic cyclist Nikos Papangelis, the Greek Women's National Water Polo Team and Maroussi BC Chery will have CrediaBank by their side on their journey towards fulfilling their dreams and reaching the top.

CrediaBank CEO, Eleni Vrettou, met personally with all the athletes, committing on behalf of CrediaBank to building a relationship of trust with a shared vision. "We are particularly proud that our new beginning is associated with outstanding athletes, from our roots in Crete to every corner of Greece. We want to stand by every person who works hard to achieve their goal—to be the team, not just the bank, they can rely on. The athletes we support are not simply champions. They are role models of integrity, teamwork, equality and inclusion, and they embody our responsibility towards people and the environment for a better future. We will be together, because together we go further." she stated.

Ioanna Mingou, Chief Marketing & Corporate Communications Officer at CrediaBank, said: "For us at CrediaBank, every athlete is an example of courage and dedication. Our support is not only about the result, but about the journey to the top—the effort, the challenges and the dreams that make every moment unique. We are very happy to be by their side on this journey and to experience it together with them."

CrediaBank becomes part of the effort of Emmanouil, Anna, Nikos, the Greek Women's National Water Polo Team and Maroussi BC Chery, proving that excellence is much more than numbers. It is commitment, collaboration, trust and respect—values that unite us and make us one team.
